PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Inkcap Consulting: Founder and Principal

September 2021-present

- Work with universities (including Johns Hopkins University, Syracuse University, and the University of Iowa) and nonprofits (such as Full Spectrum Features and fwd.us) to design creative, sustainable, equitable structures through program evaluation, curriculum development, grant writing, and editing
- Provide national-level thought leadership on humanities education through invited presentations at institutions such as: University of Toronto (2023), Texas Christian University (2023), University of California System (2022), University of Virginia (2022), Georgia State University (2022), City University of New York (2022), University of South Carolina (2022), Northwestern University (2022), Rutgers University (2022), and Yale University (2021)
- Worked in an editorial capacity with CUNY Graduate Center on a $4 million grant from the Waverley Street Foundation to jointly develop an NYC Climate Justice Hub; the grant was successfully funded
- Created the Next-Generation Dissertations website in consultation with Syracuse University, featuring evaluation guidelines, resources, and samples of innovative humanities dissertations
- Developed a thriving community of reflection and practice among peers poised to change the academy

The Graduate Center, City University of New York: Co-Director, The Futures Initiative; Director, Programs and Administration, HASTAC

October 2014-September 2021

- Recognized as a national leader in equity and inclusion, student-centered pedagogy, technology, the value of the humanities, and advocacy in support of public higher education
- Managed operating budget of approximately $250,000 annually, plus grant funds
- Supervised team of 10-12 people including staff members, postdoctoral fellows, and graduate fellows
- Carried out strategic planning, program evaluation, public outreach, and communications from the Futures Initiative program's inception in 2014
- Wrote successful grant proposals to the Mellon Foundation ($3.15 million in 2015 and in 2019, to support the CUNY Humanities Alliance) and the Teagle Foundation ($50,000 to support the CUNY Peer Leaders program); executed grant-funded projects and managed reporting to funders
- Organized the virtual Graduate Education at Work in the World conference in 2021, which attracted over 300 participants from across the US
- Co-administered all aspects of HASTAC (the Humanities, Arts, Science, and Technology Alliance and Collaboratory), an academic social network and blogging space with over 16,000 users
- Developed, organized, and delivered public programs focused on higher education, pedagogy, and equity through the monthly University Worth Fighting For series
- Conducted annual CUNY-based competitions including faculty fellowships, graduate student research grants, and undergraduate leadership fellowships
- Implemented and managed a free, open-source, multi-site network using a customized version of the WordPress/BuddyPress-based Commons In A Box platform

Modern Language Association: Managing Editor, MLA Commons

September 2013-October 2014

- Created content and contributed to design and development of MLA Commons, an open-source platform for collaboration and scholarly communication
- Helped conceptualize and draft a $1.9 grant proposal to the Mellon Foundation to support the development of the Connected Academics program, as well as a $225,000 grant to support the continued development of Humanities Commons; managed and reported on successfully funded projects
- Developed short- and long-term strategies to increase member engagement
- Collaborated with executive director and department of research on activities dedicated to graduate education reform, professionalization, and equitable labor practices

Scholarly Communication Institute, University of Virginia Libraries: Senior Research Specialist

April 2012- September 2013

- Developed, conducted, and reported on a broad survey of humanities-trained respondents who self-identified as working in alternative academic careers
- Documented and refined new models of graduate education
- Helped to develop the Praxis Network, an international network of allied humanities initiatives
- Supported and reported on meetings on emerging publishing models and on graduate education reform

Alfred P. Sloan Foundation: Operations Management Specialist

September 2009-March 2012

- Collaborated on strategic planning, development, and grant evaluation for the Digital Information Technology program, a new funding initiative at the time

- Managed budgets totaling approximately $1,000,000 for operational and board expenditures
- Led central administration team; contributed to hiring, training, managing, and evaluating junior staff
- Reviewed reports from grantees
- Managed communications with Board of Trustees

International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics: Assistant Secretary General

August 2004-April 2008

- Planned and executed major international meetings, such as the 7,000-participant General Assembly
- Secured substantial financial savings by shifting operations from paper-based to digital procedures
- Facilitated top-level administrative functions, including writing, publishing, and translating formal documents

University of Colorado, Boulder: Graduate Instructor

August 2004-May 2009

- Taught critical thinking, writing, and analytical skills to undergraduates in language and literature courses
- Optimized student engagement through continual course adaptation, planning, and review
- Contributed to decision-making on new degree structures, admissions, guidelines, and program offerings by serving on the graduate committee

GRANTS

Collaborator: Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC), McGill University. “TRaCE Transborder: PhD Grads Driving Change by Telling Their Stories.” Principal Investigator Paul Yachnin. $200,000 over three years to fashion narrative knowledge about PhD career pathways into an instrument for individual career advancement, international bridge-building, and institutional and social change. April 2021.

Project Co-Director (with Luke Waltzer): Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, The Graduate Center, CUNY, “CUNY Humanities Alliance.” Principal Investigator David Olan. $3.15 million grant over five years to build capacity for a new generation of educators who apply humanistic inquiry and peer mentoring to community college contexts. The grant aims to create new professional and academic opportunities for students who have been historically underserved by higher education. It builds on the 2015 Mellon Foundation grant listed below. December 2019.

Principal Investigator, PSC-CUNY Research Grant. “Manuscript Preparation for Putting the Humanities Ph.D. to Work.” To support research, editing, and indexing for final manuscript submission. July 2018; funding renewed in July 2019.

Co-Principal Investigator (with Cathy N. Davidson), Teagle Foundation, The Graduate Center, CUNY, “Liberal Arts for the New Majority.” To support programming aimed at graduate students’ development as both teachers and learners as they prepare to teach their own courses as graduate student instructors in undergraduate classrooms, and to prepare undergraduate students for leadership through peer mentoring. February 2016.

Collaborative partner: Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, The Graduate Center, CUNY, “Humanities Teaching and Learning Alliance.” Co-Directors Cathy N. Davidson, David Olan, and Bret Eynon. $3.15 million grant to enable Graduate Center Ph.D. students to be trained in effective teaching techniques at LaGuardia Community College based on methodologies proven to benefit all learners. Goals include increased retention and graduation rates for community college students and the development of pathways to rewarding careers and potential advanced degrees in the humanities. October 2015.
